

MISSION STATEMENT 2014

"FACTA NON VERBA"*

- The Hundred Swords is a Canberra-based 'battle sports' group. We are involved in melee battles of a medieval/fantasy nature using foam and latex weapons.
- This group was founded on the principles of RESPECT, HONESTY AND FAIRPLAY. Interrupting battles and sparring to dispute 'hit' tags isn't tolerated.
- The Hundred Swords is not a 'game system'. We are all about running and playing 'Battle Games'.
- We have set rules for gameplay, safety and construction.
- We are not 'Swordcraft', or any other type of game or existing system.
- We have our distinct culture, style and rules. This should be respected by people from other groups with other styles of play.
- How we see 'Battle Gaming':

Our combat is based on an honour system where each player calls themselves out of the game by acknowledging the hits delivered by other players. Our 'sport' is rooted in the self acknowledgement of defeat. That can be a hard concept for many people to embrace and be 'sporting' about, but defeat should make you not only humble, it should also make you aspire to be a better player and person.
