Weapon Types and Qualification Basic weapons

Everyone is automatically qualified to use the following weapons/weapon combinations in any battle game:

- 1-h sword
- 1-h short weapon
- 1-h sword and shield
- 1-h sword and short offhand weapon
- Coreless throwing weapons

NO additional authorisation is required to participate in battle games (ie, any event that isn't designated as "Training") with these weapons/weapon combos.

Exotic weapons

For any other weapon/combo, you need to receive training from someone already qualified in that weapon. You must use the weapon at training, both one-on-one and in groups. Once you are confident, you can seek a Sergeant-At-Arms or Weapon Master for qualification.

Exotic Weapon Types

- 1-h Axe/Mace/Hammer
- 2-h Axe/Mace/Hammer
- Pike (inc. Halberds and bardiches)
- 2-h Sword
- Buster Sword (Defined as: any two-handed sword with a blade width greater than 10cm at the hilt)
- Bow
- Flail
- Quarterstaff (Defined as: Any double-ended pole weapon)
- Spear/Glaive/Naginata

Qualification

If you can demonstrate that you can safely use your weapon (ie, without headshots or other unsafe play), then you will be recorded as qualified with that weapon, and can use it freely in battle games. Remember - the purpose of these qualification bouts is not to determine if you can use the weapon effectively, just that you can use the weapon safely. You are not required to win your qualification bouts. Also, fighting a qualification bout is not a guarantee of qualification. If you cannot demonstrate safety, you will require more training before requesting another qualification.

You will not be qualified on the first day you pick up a weapon. You need to use the weapon at several training sessions - including some one-on-one training time with someone who is already qualified - before being qualified yourself. Qualifications will only take place at training - not at battle games.

Exotic Weapon Combos

2-h weapons cannot be used in any combination with other weapons. 1-h weapons, including axes/maces/hammers and flails, replace the 1-h sword in combos. This means that if you are qualified with 1-h AMH, you can use a 1-h hammer on its own, with a shield, or with a short offhand weapon.

Officers

Sergeants-At-Arms are considered qualified with all weapons, and have the authority to qualify others in all weapons.

Weapon Masters are considered experts in their specified weapon, and have the authority to qualify others in that weapon.
