

The Fourth Coathook From The Left

By Basil (original post)

There's a row of coathooks near the front door (in the restaurant, the TV room, wherever you prefer ). They're your standard wall-mounted hooks, a dozen of them.

Strangely, any coat, wrap, etc. hung on the fourth one from the left will be moved to another hook, when no-one is looking. This sometimes leads to yells of "Who the * * * * was * * * *ing around with my coat?!?" from those unfamiliar with the phenomenon. The staff and the hotel regulars have learned to ignore the moving of coats, since no harm ever comes to the moved garments.

The only really upsetting thing about the fourth coathook is it's connection with...
