

John

By V. (original post)

Arrived in the hotel just a few days ago. Although he gives his name as John Smith he is quite obviously of Middle Eastern extraction, a heavily set man in his late middle age, with closely cropped dark hair. Thick stubble shows he is capable of growing a good beard but it looks recently shaved. He is currently more or less confined to a wheelchair, wearing a surgical neck brace, and is attended to every other day by a pair of unapproachable Americans who deflect any and all questions about the new guest other than to say he suffered a spinal injury and is recuperating.

John is obviously reluctant to talk to members of the hotel staff and pretty much abuses them until they leave his room on the odd occasion that there has been a need to take something to him when his carers aren't present.
