

Jukebox Roy

By Kyle A. (original post)

Roy is a kindly old man who's lived at the hotel for the last year and a half. Roy is a mute, if you see the inside of his mouth he doesn't even have a tongue. Roy knows sign language and will happily converse in it with anyone who happens to know it. Otherwise he writes down what he has to say in a pocket sized notebook. No one in the entire hotel has anything bad to say about Roy. When ever the PCs finish talking to him and have turned their backs and are walking away they will hear someone sings old songs. None of the Pcs ever hear the same song at the sametime. If they turn around Roy will be doing something else, not even looking at them. Nobody in the hotel but the PCs has heard this music and if the PCs press the issue they will get strange looks from other people.
